

TRANSITIONAL HOUSING SUPPORT WORKER

- Growing Community Housing Organisation
- Competitive salary with salary sacrifice

Hume Community Housing is a provider of a range of tenancy, property management and supported housing services to individuals and families in Western Sydney. Hume works to provide high quality homes and holistic, equitable services to its customers, along with nurturing the potential of all its valued team members.

The successful applicant will form part of Hume's successful Transitional Housing and Temporary Accommodation Project Team providing housing to people in need in the South Western Sydney area. The successful applicant will have previous knowledge, experience and skills:

- Experience and knowledge of issues relating to homelessness and families experiencing crisis
- Experience of working in a supported housing environment with people in need
- Experience in case management of people with complex support needs, encouraging them to become independent
- Must be able to demonstrate the ability to work with individuals on a consistent basis
- Ability to interpret individual needs into a support plan and to access other support services and networks as required
- Ability to manage own case load effectively
- Understanding of and demonstrated ability to work with human service agencies
- Appropriate tertiary qualifications in social sciences or demonstrate relevant work experience.
- Current NSW drivers licence and car

Benefits of working for Hume include:

- Attractive salary packages
- Flexible work practices
- Salary packaging ($16,050 tax free component of salary package due to PBI status)
- Maternity, parental and adoption leave provisions
- Career development opportunities

Please contact Carly Jones on (02) 9724 0554 or employment@humecha.com.au for an information pack including how to apply for the position. Closing date for applications is 5pm Monday 30th January 2012.