Expressions of Interest for Airds Bradbury Renewal Project now open

Finance Minister Greg Pearce and Community Services Minister Pru Goward today announced that the NSW Government was seeking expressions of interest (EOI) for the Airds Bradbury Renewal Project.

The program will be 15 to 30 years long and it seeks to transform 1,470 public housing homes into approximately 2,000 homes in a mix of social, affordable and private housing.

The public private partnership will deliver finance, design, refurbishment, construction, acquisition, tenancy management, maintenance, sales, community engagement, community renewal and development for the project.

Housing NSW and the Department of Finance and Services have been undertaking preparatory work on the renewal and will continue with the implementation until the public private partnership partner is chosen and can assume full responsibility.

The project aimed to reduce the concentrations of social housing, support the social and economic participation of residents and contribute to a more sustainable and affordable social housing system.

Minister Goward said that the community would be consulted every step of the way.

Copies of information package for interested applicants will be available from the NSW Government tendering website, tenders.nsw.gov.au/dfs, from 1 December 2011.
