Community Housing Symposium Tuesday 29 November 2011

CHFA will be hosting a free symposium on the future of the sector and the policies and practices required to facilitate its growth and viability. The symposium will be set against the backdrop of the current policy development that is being conducted in the lead up to the negotiations of the next National Affordable Housing Agreements. The day will be structured around four themes:

- Access to capital;
- Investment vehicles;
- Constraints—organisational;
- Constraints—policy.

The symposium will be facilitated by Dr Tony Gilmour and feature a number of guest discussants.

CHFA's members, their delegates, and CHFA Provider Forum members, and representatives from community housing providers are all welcome. Representatives from the Australian Government will also be in attendance. The symposium will provide an opportunity for participants have their voices heard and provide input into CHFA's policy development process. A report from the proceedings will be written up, and the outcomes from the symposium will assist CHFA to represent the sector.
